By: Paige Day, M-O FFA Reporter

MULHALL, Okla—The Mulhall-Orlando local livestock show took place Sunday, February 3 in Mulhall, OK. There were a total of 54 animals exhibited, and although the show was small in numbers, the quality of livestock exhibited was top notch. In addition to the livestock show, there was a livestock judging contest Saturday, February 7 that was open to the public. Of course one of the highlights is always the fair kitchen, which is run by the FFA Moms Club. It was open for business throughout the weekend, and the food was delicious as always. The money raised from the kitchen is used to help fund conferences, conventions, camps, and scholarships for the local FFA students. The results of the show and other competitions are as follows:
